Focusing his practice on defending clients in complex cases, particularly in product liability and mass tort matters, Mark Mitchell is a creative problem solver and collaborative team player. With a pragmatic approach and eye for detail informed by his early career experience as a paralegal and judicial extern, Mark efficiently delivers high quality research and written work product.

Mark drafts pleadings, takes and defends depositions, and argues motions at the state and federal court levels. A quick study and an effective oral communicator, he is skilled at breaking down complex legal and technical concepts into clear language, analyzing and presenting multiple strategic options to his clients, and working with colleagues to develop novel solutions to the challenges involved in complex and high-stakes litigation.
